Saint Vincent School Develops New HEART Program

The HEART Program utilizes best practices in education in the area of discipline. Restorative Justice and Positive Behavior Support Systems are child-centered strategies that engage the student in social-emotional learning and revolve around the areas of discipline, trust, and relationships.

The following article appeared in the August 31, 2018 issue of the Intermountain Catholic:

Saint Vincent de Paul Parish School is starting the school year with a newly developed positive behavior incentive program called “St. Vincent HEART.” HEART is an acronym for Helpful – Encouraging – Accepting – Responsible – Together, which are the positive descriptions chosen for the program to be modeled by the whole St. Vincent community including students, faculty, staff, parents, and volunteers.

“We have totally revamped our discipline program,” said Vice Principal Sarah Lambert.

“I took a course this summer at Creighton University called Catholic Foundations and was really inspired by the emphasis they placed on school mission and charism. Our mission at St. Vincent is to recognize every person as a valued child of God, and we are dedicated to cultivating their minds and hearts. Our charisms focus on service and the unique community we have at St. Vincent. In reflection of this, I found the school’s older system to be too punitive, which set up an adversarial relationship between the students and teachers. So I spent the summer working with Principal Gary Green and Student Support Team Member, Lisa Romero, on developing a unique program based on the ideas of Restorative Justice and Positive Behavior Support Systems.”

In the St. Vincent HEART program, teachers recognize a student, staff member, or volunteer who models the HEART behaviors. When a teacher recognizes a student, they fill out a “St. Vincent’s HEART” form to be displayed in the main school hallway. Each quarter, these forms move to the classrooms as more HEART forms are added to the main display. Also, teachers help students process their behavior by examining if their actions are safe, kind, and helpful.

“By focusing on positive behaviors and expectations, we set a new, more positive tone that connects so beautifully to our mission and charisms. The discipline system also works at creating and maintaining our community,” said Lambert. “Instead of handing out warnings, our teachers will restate and reteach the routines and expectations. It fits in really well with the Catholic value of reconciling and restoring relationships. That is our focus, and that is what makes us special.”

Principal Gary Green adds, “Despite the added effort that the HEART Program entails, teachers have embraced the program and are committed to its success.”

Saint Vincent School Finds “Trouble in Friendlyville”

The eighth grade class at Saint Vincent de Paul Parish School presented the original musical play “Trouble in Friendlyville” on Thursday, November 17, 2017 with a daytime performance for the entire school and an evening performance for families. “Trouble in Friendlyville” was written and composed by the school’s principal, Gary Green, with musical arrangements by Scott Larrabee, the school’s band and choir teacher.

“Trouble in Friendlyville” is about a small town of pig ranchers in the old west that has recently lost their mayor in a pig stampede. The only two candidates, Phil Flowers (whose name strikes fear in the heart of everyone who hears it) and Maddy

Lou Hardplow (who loves to eat and fight) are hardly the people the citizens expect to lead such a kindness-based town. The candidates compete in Friendlyville’s Best Citizen Contest as a measure to see who is best qualified to be mayor. When some innocent children are in the path of a big pig stampede, Phil and Maddy really show their aptitude for the job.

“I love how the students took on this play as their own,” Green said. “They created the backdrops and signs, thought of what props to use, came up with multiple suggestions for stage direction, and did their own costuming. The eighth grade’s ownership in the play is what made it such a valuable experience--that, and the fact that the playwright is a genius.”

“It was fun being the first class to do a play with it just being our class. If they do another eighth grade play that would be great for future classes to get to do something new. It was also very rewarding doing all the set designs and constructing them ourselves,” said eighth grader Kelsie Kruckenberg. Classmate Piper Chenoweth added, “We got to put our own spin on it. Mr. Green let us do everything, and we got to do it the way we thought it should be done so it really was our play. It was so much fun; I wish it wasn’t over.”

Middle School News

Electives

Saint Vincent has many exciting opportunities in their Middle School. Students are offered a variety of elective class options each quarter. In the 2017-2018 school year, elective classes included Google Hacks and Apps, Coding, Statistics, Archaeology, Dramaturgy, Earthbound Quidditch, Exploring Japanese, Intro to Improv, Handball, and Cooking. Thank you Aimee Toner, parent and owner of Aimee’s Home Cookin’, who spent fourth quarter last year and first quarter this year teaching the cooking class with Mrs. Hustiu.

Young Alumni Reflections

John Garlinghouse (class of 2011)

The years since my elementary school graduation have been full and rewarding, and I credit the foundation I was given at St. Vincent for that. After graduating from Judge Memorial High School, where I was involved in Student Government, Peer Ministry, National Honor Society, football and lacrosse, I began my undergraduate studies at California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo.

I am currently pursuing my degree in Industrial Technology with an emphasis in Operations Management and Packaging Science. I worked as an intern with Amazon last summer and have accepted a full time position with Amazon starting in June. I also have been very involved in multiple campus clubs, and hold a part-time campus job. Looking back, my first leadership positions were at St. Vincent when I joined Student Council in 6th grade. I gained the confidence to lead peers and speak easily in front of large groups of people. I was given the foundation of problem solving skills and a strong work ethic due to committed teachers and an administration that fostered an environment for success. I learned the importance of holding myself to high standards and to be the best I can be. For that, I am very grateful and proud to be an alumnus of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic School.

Rylee Snarr (class of 2011)

I attended St. Vincent from preschool to 8th grade, and it helped guide me through high school, college and life in general.

Something that St. Vincent really taught me was the importance of discipline and being accountable for my actions. It showed me that my results in the classroom were a direct reflection of my efforts. If I did not try hard, I knew that I wasn't going to be successful. This is something that I have always had in the back of my mind and something that I hope I never forget. There have been many opportunities in my life where I knew that if I didn't try hard enough and put in enough work, I wasn't going to succeed. Another thing St. Vincent really helped me develop was a sense of organization. Classes at St. Vincent, especially in the middle school, are designed to mimic a high school schedule. This really helped me prepare a schedule and learn to follow it so that I knew everything going on that day or week, and I wouldn't have to worry about being unprepared.

Alumni Reflections

Sophia Gulgulian (class of 2015)

St. Vincent helped prepare me to be an independent person and motivated for success. My time spent at Juan Diego gave me a new perspective on learning and gave me the opportunity to meet new people. I plan on staying in Utah to further my education within the business field and pursue a life-long career.

Grace Wise (class of 2015)

St. Vincent helped me prepare for high school incredibly well. It introduced me to study skills and work ethic as well as time management that I would develop later on. My teachers there over-prepared me for Judge, but I am grateful they did so because it made my years here at Judge easy and smooth. The staff and administration of the time were wonderful. They taught me so much and challenged me to work my hardest.

Conversations with Louise Best

This fall, we were fortunate to have the opportunity to sit down with our school's founding teacher, Louise Best, and talk with her about how St. Vincent School was started. These conversations with Mrs. Best resulted in four videos that we have made available on our school website. Look for our Conversations with Louise Best link under Featured Events on the home page. We are so blessed to have these treasured stories shared by Mrs. Best, so please check them out at www.stvincents-school.org.

Saint Vincent School Announces Retirement of Two Long-Time Staff Members

In May 2018, Saint Vincent de Paul Parish School in Holladay, UT announced the retirements of Giselle Airriess (19 years of service) and Stephanie Garlinghouse (16 years of service). Airriess had been the librarian at Saint Vincent School since 1999. As a reading tutor since 2001, she was also on the literacy team and loved seeing students embrace reading. Principal Gary Green said, "Mrs. Airriess is loved by students and parents, and will be greatly missed. She is the consummate school librarian."

Originally from Canada, Airriess enjoys traveling to visit family. She and her husband, Andy, have two grown daughters, one in England and the other in California.

Her goal at the school: Provide the right book, at the right time, with a smile! "I look forward to spending time with family, after embracing the community here as my family," said Airriess.

Garlinghouse started at Saint Vincent School in 1996 helping with a literacy program called Writing to Read. In 2000, she started as a second grade aide where she continued until 2006. After taking some time off to enjoy being a Saint Vincent mother with four boys attending the school from 1992 until 2011, she returned as the second grade aide at Saint Vincent in 2012. Principal Green said, "I have never met a greater supporter of Catholic education than Stephanie. As Diocesan

Stephanie Garlinghouse

School Board President and a Diocesan School Board representative, Judge football team supporter, or just speaking to prospective parents, Stephanie always promotes and acknowledges the best in Catholic schools."

"My experiences at St. Vincent School and Parish have given me memories that I will cherish always," said Garlinghouse.
